

Sample standards written for this training. Swap in your state's standards when you build your own notebook.

GRADE 6 ELA • POINT OF VIEW: WHOSE STORY IS IT?

Sample Standards

Six sample standards: three for reading literature, two for writing, one for discussion.

Standards for this unit

Code	Sample standard	Where it shows up
ELA.6.RL.1	Cite text evidence Back up both what a story says outright and what you infer from it, using exact quotes and details.	Lessons 2, 5, and 6. The text-evidence paragraph.
ELA.6.RL.3	Plot and character response Explain how a story's events build scene by scene, and how the characters react and change on the way to the ending.	Lessons 4 and 5.
ELA.6.RL.6	Narrator and point of view Identify who tells a story. Explain how the narrator's point of view, including what the narrator misses or misreads, shapes the events and the reader's feelings.	Lessons 1 to 5. Exit tickets and the clue chart.
ELA.6.W.3	Narrative writing Write a scene with a clear narrator and a steady point of view, using dialogue, description, and a clear order of events.	Lessons 7 and 8. The creative rewrite.
ELA.6.W.9	Evidence in writing Write a paragraph that makes a claim about a text, supports it with quoted evidence, and explains how the evidence proves the claim.	Lesson 6. The text-evidence paragraph.
ELA.6.SL.1	Partner discussion Come to partner and small-group talks prepared, point to the text, and build on what others say.	Lessons 2, 5, and 8.

How to read a code

- ELA is English language arts.
- 6 is the grade.
- RL is reading literature. W is writing. SL is speaking and listening.
- The last number tells them apart.

Using your own standards

Replace this page with your state's standards. Keep the codes exactly as your state writes them, so your notebook can match each lesson to the right standard.